Poetry is a diagonal line connecting two points where, in times of less urgency, a right angle and two other lines of greater combined length would suffice.

I used to work at this place where EVERYONE ate avocados. Lunch, snacks, late breakfast, you name it. If food or drink was involved, without fail there was an avocado. ~~involved~~.

My coworkers even started to look like avocados.

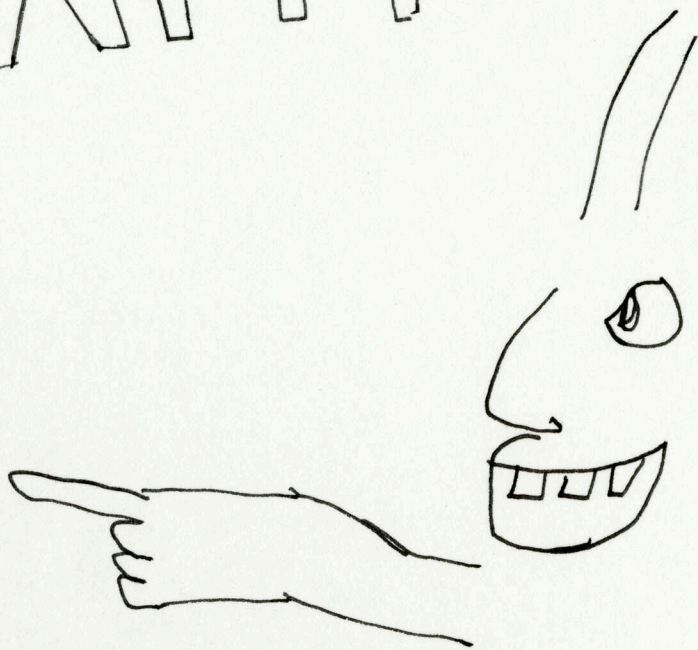

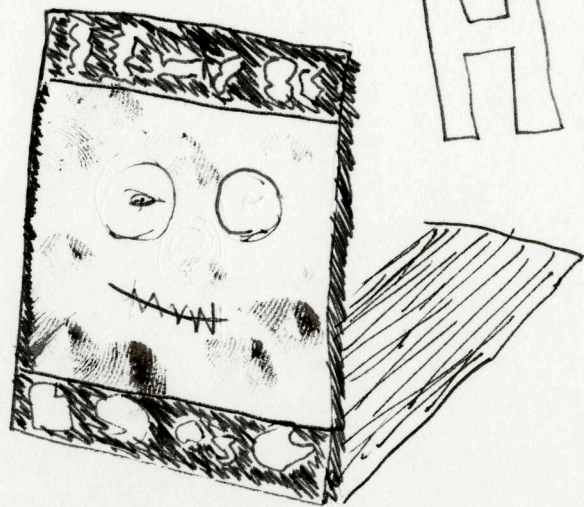

OH WAIT my office was a grocery store.

I'm an avocado??

GOD IS A GASLIGHTER

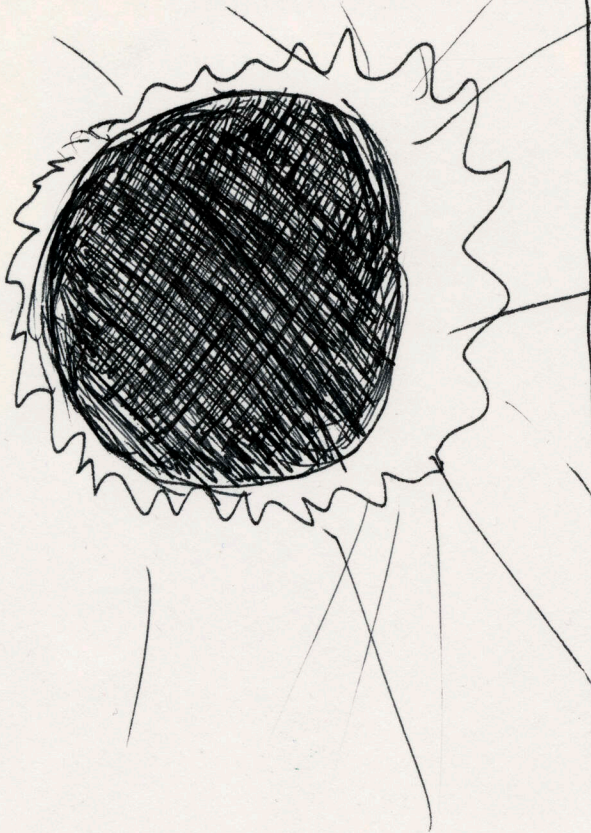

I drove 15 hours to see a total eclipse and at the worst possible moment recognized someone I never wanted to see again.

I took off my eclipse glasses just before totality because I wasn't certain it was her.

I was blinded mere seconds after catching a glimpse of that familiar face, and bad memories washed over me.

It wasn't her anyway. I guess that wish of mine came true after all!
